2. Give me, O Lord, a heart that seeks
To know your pleasure, hear your praise,
That counts as nought the praise of men
But longs to one day see your face.

3. Give me, O Lord, a heart that weeps
For those who cannot hear your voice,
A heart that knows the fear of hell
And longs to hear the saved rejoice

4. Give me, O Lord, a heart that sings
For every breath it breathes anew,
A heart that cannot help itself
But sounds its every beat for you.
